BLUE GRASS STATE MOURNING DEATH OF J. PROCTOR KNOTT

Author of Famous "Duluth' Speech Dies at Age of Eighty-one.

LEBANON, Ky., June 19 .- All Kenis mourning the loss today of one of her foremost statesmen, J. Proctor Knott, former governor and Representative, who died at his home yesterday at the age of eighty-one years.

Ailments incident to old age, aggravated by pulmonary trouble, becoming serious a week ago, was the cause of death, which occurred at 6 o'clock yesterday evening. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon with the interment here. James Proctor Knott was the twentyninth governor of Kentucky, and served in that capacity from 1883 to 1887. He was born in Marion county, Ky., August 23, 1830. His ancestors were of English stock, and had come to America several generations ago. He re-ceived a common school education and, at the age of sixteen years, began the study of law. He removed to Memphis, Mo., in 1850, and, after serving for a time in the county and circuit clerks' offices, was admitted to the bar and was soon in command of a liberal clientage.

He was a Democratic Representative He was a Democratic Representative from the Fourth Kentucky district in the Fortieth, Forty-first, Forty-fourth, Forty-fifth, Forty-sixth, and Forty-seventh Congresses, serving from 1867 to 1871 and from 1875 to 1882. During the last five years of his service Mr. Knott was chairman of the Judiciary Committee, a position which he filled with great ability. He acquired a reputation as a humorist and a master of sattre by a harangue in opposition to a bill for the improvement of Pennsylvania avenue, in Washington, and also by his famous "Duluth speech," which, in the judgment of many, has never In the judgment of many, has never been surpassed for its scathing satire. This speech was delivered in the House of Representatives on January 27, 1871. of Representatives on January 27, 1871. An effort had been made to extend the term in which to construct a railroad from the St. Croix river to Lake Superior, at Duluth, and to continue the grant of nearly a million and a half acres of land. The bill had passed the Senate, but when it came before the House Proctor Knott assailed it in a spirit of broad farce, which made it ridiculous. The result was that not only the measure under consideration was killed, but the whole system of railroad subsidies was given a death railroad subsidies was given a death blow, Proctor Knott's oration became one of the humorous classics of the time, although, like "Single Speech" Hamilton, he was never able to duplicate the happy performance.

Mackey, discussing the divorce situation further. "to strengthen the Virginia difurther, "to strengthen the virginia verce laws. One is an amendment make certain that notice of suit shall be served on the defendant if he can be found, and the other is an amend-ment requiring the court to appoint ounsel to defend uncontested cases. the law were strengthened in these two respects it could not be abused as it is now.

Abuse of Residence Rule.

"I am not in favor of reducing the number of causes for which divorce can be obtained. There are practically but two under the present law-infidelity and desertion. Cases in which the others could be resorted to are extremely rare, and in any event do not offer op- LOST-Lady's gold hunting case watch, June portunity for obtaining divorce virtually by fraud. The requirement for residence is that the plaintiff shall have lived in the State one year. This is abused, but there is no way to prevent that except by making sure the defendant knows of the suit and by providing counsel for the defendant in uncontested cases. The residence provision itself does not need to be itself does not need to be changed. "At present notice of suit is by per-sonal service, by publication in a news-paper in the jurisdiction of the court, or by the posting of notice on the court house door. When the latter or by the posting of notice on the court house door. When the latter method is used, of course, the chances of the defendant ever hearing of the action are small. Even if the notice is published in a local paper the chances are small. The law should be like the District law on this point—require an affidavit from the plaintiff that he made diligent search for the defendant, that he mailed a copy of the notice to the defendant's last known address, or that he was unable to ascertain the address. Then, if the absent defendant is represented by counsel named by the court, the truth of the statements of the plaintiff can be questioned.

as evidence that he is a resident. It is not uncommon for a man or woman to get a satchel residence in Virginia by renting a room and sleeping there occasionally and then to swear he or she has lived in the State a year. This is a vicious practice, and the way to stop it is as I have indicated."

The Virginia Legislature meets this winter, and it is not unlikely that vigorous efforts will be put forth to amend the divorce laws in the way suggested by Mr. Mackey. ## WORKS LIQUOR BILL STRONGLY OPPOSED BY COMMISSIONERS

Plan to Limit Saloons in District Fails to Meet Approval.

Declaring that such a law would tend to increase largely the number of wholesale liquer establishments and practically wipe the saloons out of existence, the Commissioners today forwarded to Congress an adverse report on the bill introduced by Senator Works of California to limit the number of saloons in the District to 100, and to confine them to business streets. The Commissioners question the wisdom of the measure, being of the opinion that wholesale establishments are more promotive of indulgence than places where liquor is sold at retail. "A cursory examination of the map of the city," the Commissioners say in a letter to Senator Gallinger, chairman of the Senate Committee on the District of Columbia, "seems to indicate that no saloon could be conducted in the District of Columbia under the restriction contained in section 5, that no saloon, barroom, or other place where intoxicating liquors are sold at retail shall be licensed, allowed, or maintained nearer than three squares of any alleyway occupied for residences or places commonly called slums."

Should this section be eliminated the Commissioners would still question the wisdom of the plan, as they think it would create a monopoly that might prove prejudicial to the proper enforcement of the excise laws. It would greatly increase the profits of the favored few, and materially diminish the revenues of the District of Columbia.

The number of saloons now in the District is 518 and the number of whole-sale establishments 125. a letter to Senator Gallinger, chairman
